

DMLO Announces the Appointment of Three New Directors

“While other Louisville accounting firms are merging, Deming, Malone, Livesay & Ostroff continues to remain strong and growing”, according to Jennifer Hughes, President. On October 1, 2010, we announced the appointment of three new Directors to our leadership team: Jeff Calderon, Bill Eversole, and Christine Koenig. Between them, they have 40 years of tax and accounting experience, 15 of those years representing DMLO. Respected by their peers, these three individuals each demonstrate a strong work ethic, and an ability to get the job done.

Jeff Calderon joined DMLO in 2007, after relocating to Louisville from New York City. Jeff commented that, “he knew DMLO was the perfect fit for him, and he intends to see that our name remains strong within the Louisville community.” His focus is in the tax area specializing in tax preparation services to small businesses and professionals, high net worth individuals, and business consulting. Jeff is very involved with Greater Louisville, Inc. as a member of its Tax Advisory Committee and Total Resource Campaign. Not only does Jeff participate and attend most of the GLI events, he also encourages other DMLO staffers to get engaged in their community by participating in GLI opportunities. Jeff came to DMLO having been an owner of a thriving firm and continues to grow his client base throughout Louisville.

Bill Eversole also came to DMLO as an owner of a successful firm. Bill joined DMLO in 2008, and specializes in tax preparation services, high net worth individuals, complex partnerships, tax credit and special deduction analysis and business consulting. Bill stated “how honored he was to be given this responsibility.” Bill represents the Firm exceptionally as a frequent lecturer for the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, National Association of Tax Professionals, and various state CPA societies. He is a constant source of tax expertise for staff and clients alike.

In 2003, after 5 years with a national firm, Christine Koenig came to DMLO looking for more flexibility and the opportunity for advancement. She moved up the ranks from Supervisor, dedicating a bulk of her time to audits and compliance auditing. She has developed a significant concentration in auditing employee benefit plans and not-for-profit organizations. Christine’s commitment to supporting the day to day operation of DMLO is significant. She takes an active role in staff scheduling and recruiting, and helps DMLO with professional standards compliance. Christine is also one of the primary go-to people for audit software support. When addressing the staff at our annual meeting, Christine said that she “is flattered with the confidence the Directors and staff have in her and is grateful to be part of DMLO.”

In addition to their technical proficiency, hard work, and dedication, it was their commitment to client service that propelled them to the forefront of the Firm. We are pleased to welcome Jeff, Bill, and Christine to this new chapter in their careers.
